Revolinsky

September,
Twenty-third,
1 9 2 6.

Timothy N. Pfeiffer, Esq., Counselor at Law,
120 Broadway,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:-

Mr. Watson had an interview with Revolinsky. Revolin-sky claims that Erling is a bad egg. He, of course, is not in a position to appear active against him for the reason that Erling at one time worked for Revolinsky and knows his line of business. Erling has not lived with his parents for some time. On one occasion he lived with some old man and his son, who resided in an old french roofed house out on a farm at the end of Jersey Avenue beyond the Raritan Rubber Company works. He did not have the name of these people, but claims that they have no use for Erling. I am endeavoring to locate who they are. He also suggested the name, Bill Stalker of the Standard Garage on French Street, as a man who might be able to give some information as to Erling. I have turned this matter over to Morgan for investigation.

In regard to Anna King, Revolinsky was then a boy of fourteen years of age, and did not know the woman. However, he claims that "Stumpy" Gillan's sweetheart or girl at that time was Minnie Latourette; that Minnie had a brother named Dick, who married one of the Oughton family. I have followed this up and find that Dick is dead. His son, Dick, however, works for Raymond Wilson. I have interviewed the son, but he claims that he did not know where his aunt is living, or in fact, claims never to have known anything about her.
He said that he understood his father had one brother, who conducts a store at Whitehouse, N. J. I have turned this information over to Harrison and suggested that he see Mrs. Latourette, and then follow up the matter at Whitehouse, N. J. today.

Revolinsky also mentioned Fred Scott, as a former bartender at Gillan's, and informed Mr. Watson that he usually hangs out around the Court House Square in the evening, and that he is known to the watchman. I turned this matter over to Mr. Harrison yesterday and he had already located and interviewed Scott, as his report will indicate.